

Pronoun Types: Exercise

1. "I think the best science projects by far were done by you and (I, me)," declared Leila, "but I wouldn't bet that the winners will be (we, us)."
2. History 201, (which, that) was supposed to be a graduate course, became an undergraduate course this term.
3. John and (myself, me, I) are headed to the movies; can we give you and (he, him) a ride?
4. My first grade teacher, (who, whom) I always thought the world of, used to let the A students sit in the back of the class.
5. The dean wanted (he, him) and (I, me) to lead the procession.
6. His sister has been taller than (he, him) his whole life.
7. I will hire (whomever, whoever) is qualified.
8. "Between you and (I, me), I think the best singers in the contest were Mike and (he, him)," whispered Joan.
9. The janitors (that, which, who) are on strike feel they deserve higher pay for their work.
10. Jenny thinks the professor likes Maya more than (the professor likes) (she, her).
11. The paint on this car has lost (it's, its) luster.
12. (Us, we) parents have to stick together if we want to change school curriculum.
13. They want to know (who, whom) runs the business.
14. The gloves (which, that) had been soiled were thrown into the laundry.
15. Both of the winners—Cody and (she, her)—are on a trip to Hawaii; don't you wish we were (they, them)?

Answers to Exercise: Pronoun Types

1. "I think the best science projects by far were done by you and (I, me)," declared Leila, "but I wouldn't bet that the winners will be (we, us)."
2. History 201, (which, that) was supposed to be a graduate course, became an undergraduate course this term.
3. John and (myself, me, I) are headed to the movies; can we give you and (he, him) a ride?
4. My first grade teacher, (who, whom) I always thought the world of, used to let the A students sit in the back of the class.
5. The dean wanted (he, him) and (I, me) to lead the procession.
6. His sister has been taller than (he, him) his whole life.
7. I will hire (whomever, whoever) is qualified.
8. "Between you and (I, me), I think the best singers in the contest were Mike and (he, him)," whispered Joan.
9. The janitors (that, which, who) are on strike feel they deserve higher pay for their work.
10. Jenny thinks the professor likes Maya more than (the professor likes) (she, her).
11. The paint on this car has lost (it's, its) luster.
12. (Us, we) parents have to stick together if we want to change school curriculum.
13. They want to know (who, whom) runs the business.
14. The gloves (which, that) had been soiled were thrown into the laundry.
15. Both of the winners—Cody and (she, her)—are on a trip to Hawaii; don't you wish we were (they, them)?